The leaders of the market were St. Paul, Atchison, Norfolk & Western and C., L. & L. The first-named declined rather sharply at the opening, rallied quickly and finally closed at the highest price for the day. Although the best informed people are dend in September, it is thought to be not improbable that some sort of stock distrioution may be made to represent the large sums of money that have been put into improvements. Norfolk was bought by insiders and by houses with Philadelphia connections, the buying being accompanied by rumors that considerable progress had been made in the endeavor to form a softcoal pool. Expectations that the July statement of Atchison will show a gain of more than a million dollars in gross earnings caused some buying by the traders, but the extreme advance was due to aggressive pool operations based on the belief that the short interest in the stock was considerable. Boston houses took considerable blocks of amalgamated copper, it being upposed that the orders emanated from a heavy Boston operator who has recently given vent to extremely bullish opinions in regard to the prospects of the company. There was no news in regard to C., I. & L. but the fact that it was strong naturally tended to revive stories of absorption by the Southern Railway. The steel stocks, although not very active, were decfiledly firm, considering the recent adverse developments. During the last half hour there were indications that the short interest was becoming alarmed. The advances were considerable and were the result of only light transactions. The closing was strong at about the best figures of the day. To-day's market again shows that the floating supply of stocks in the street is comparatively small and that the appearance of any buying has a much greater effect on prices than the appearance of an equal amount of selling.

Manipulation in Evidence.

[Granger Farwell & Co.'s Telegram.] NEW YORK, Aug. 19 .- The unexpected happened in the street to-day. Even the Good to choice 1,100 to 1,200-lb bulls, this morning, looked for lower prices, temporarily, and very few expected market to-day was the light offerings for either account and this was taken advantage of, late in the day, by pools, to put up prices. This applies particularly to C. & O. and Norfolk & Western. The reasons given were Pensylvania's buying and favorable progress toward the soft coal combination. These are old stories, but it is given out that the pool will put Norfolk to 60. Near the last some quite large orders to Atchison common were executed, been short. Advantage was taken of the situation and prices rushed up rapidly. Manipulation was, in most part, responsible for the advance in the steel stocks. While fluctuations were quite wide to-day the market is very professional and it is quite useless to make predictions, but floor sentiment seemed to favor higherprices for to-morrow.

WIREGRASS FURNITURE.

Almost No Limit to the Application of Stalk to Practical Uses.

In our editorial columns of a recent Issue we called attention to the marvelous growth of the wiregrass industry which was started by the granting of an almost insignificant patent to cover the manufacture of this tough stock into a binder twine for use in harvesting machines. Up to this time the grass had been utterly without use and the land on which it grew was regarded | Fair to good pigs..... the patent was the foundation of one of the greatest and most interesting industries which has grown to mammoth proportions in four years. From the binder twine making it was discovered that a very satisfactory floor covering could be made, but when it was found that it could be utilized in the manufacture of furniture in the place of willow the consumption of the grass was increased many times. At present nearly everything in the way of household furniture, excepting a bedstead and bureau, are made up from this material. Furniture is produced in a remarkable number of designs, including chairs, tables, screens, doors, baby carriages, go-carts, bassinets, music stands, flower stands, jardiniers, hampers and baskets of all kinds, and many other novelties. A notable feature of the process is the absence of any chemical treatment in the preparation of the fiber. The grass as it appears finished is just as it was taken from the marsh, except that it has been
